Letter from Abraham Lincoln to Joshua Fry Speed Springfield, Illinois August 24, 1855

Dear Speed:

You know what a poor correspondent I am. Ever since I received your very agreeable letter of the 22nd. of May I have been intending to write you in answer to it. You suggest that in political action now, you and I would differ. I suppose we would; not quite as much, however, as you may think. You know I dislike slavery; and you fully admit the abstract wrong of it. So far there is no cause of difference. But you say that sooner than yield your legal right to the slave -- especially at the bidding of those who are not themselves interested, you would see the Union dissolved. I am not aware that any one is bidding you to yield that right; very certainly I am not. I leave that matter entirely to yourself. I also acknowledge your rights and my obligations, under the constitution, in regard to your slaves. I confess I hate to see the poor creatures hunted down, and caught, and carried back to their stripes, and unrewarded toils; but I bite my lip and keep quiet. In 1841 you and I had together a tedious low-water trip, on a Steam Boat from Louisville to St. Louis. You may remember, as I well do, that from Louisville to the mouth of the Ohio, there were, on board, ten or a dozen slaves, shackled together with irons. That sight was a continued torment to me; and I see something like it every time I touch the Ohio, or any other slave-border. It is hardly fair for you to assume, that I have no interest in a thing which has, and continually exercises, the power of making me miserable. You ought rather to appreciate how much the great body of the Northern people do crucify their feelings, in order to maintain their loyalty to the Constitution and the Union.

I do oppose the extension of slavery, because my judgment and feelings so prompt me; and I am under no obligation to the contrary. If for this you and I must differ, differ we must. You say if you were President, you would send an army and hang the leaders of the Missouri outrages upon the Kansas elections; still, if Kansas fairly votes herself a slave state, she must be admitted, or the Union must be dissolved. But how if she votes herself a slave State unfairly -- that is, by the very means for Aprilia field, Aug 28 1855 Dear diam. Mar beins what a pro conspondent I am beins scheel a pro conspondent I am beins scheel a project of the J have been the better of the 32⁻⁴ of the J have been intender to unite on a consist to the you put or much herein a got they thicks - you than I with sleves, one you fill aster to coard of differences I are then in the centres wrong of the Son of the state potent the schemes, and you fill aster the schemes - a got they thicks - you than I with sleves, and you fill aster to coard of differences is then they fill be plane - a planing at the bridding of them who are not the scheme - I have the account of the is bridding you to got a coard of is bridding you to got the coard of is bridding you to the coard of the is bridding to the to got the coard of is bridding the to got the coard of is bridding to the to be coard of the is bridding to the the coard of the is bridding to the to coard of the coard the too the to be the poor coard of coafder and have the poor coard of coafder and have the poor coard of the to be the in coagett and camees back to the of the of the of the fills and unneard see total, but d beto my life and keep quit. In 1841 go and have togethe a taken her water tog a a Steen Boat for Somwell to Scheming you regard render, and wree as the four downles to the month of the Order beer and together with home other agto are a continue tomat to me, and I see some they the sense to me, and I see some they the sense to be the Order on they the sense to and the other on they the sense to any the advector on they the sense to and the other on they the sense to and the other of the parts of making me misually sensing the parts of making me the sense the parts of making me the casting the parts of making one parts and and they are the the large of the the casting to maintee the large of parts of the casting of the parts of the large of the the casting of the the goe and and the factor of the part the comparts of the to and the part of the the case of the casting of the part of the sector of the the cast of the part of the sector of the the cast of the part of the the sector of the the cast of the part of the sector of the tow one of the parts of the parts of the tow on the sense of the parts of the tow on the sense an sensy one head the heaves wate sense are sensy one have the heaves is the the parts of heaves of the the sector of the the parts of the tow of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the heaves water sense are sensy one head the heaves is parts of the the sector of the the sector of the the parts of heaves of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the heaves of the the parts of heaves of the he

Image Source: Presidential Letters at the Massachusetts Historical Society, Letter from Abraham Lincoln (Springfield) to Joshua Fry Speed about slavery, the Nebraska Bill, and Kansas affairs, 24 Aug. 1855.

continued next page

This primary source is referenced in Warning Signs: Lincoln's Response to Rising Threats to Freedom, Justice and Democracy, a project of Lincoln Presidential Foundation, generously supported by Iron Mountain.

PRIMARY SOURCE

Letter from Abraham Lincoln to Joshua Fry Speed, continued

which you say you would hang men? Must she still be admitted, or the Union be dissolved? That will be the phase of the question when it first becomes a practical one. In your assumption that there may be a fair decision of the slavery question in Kansas, I plainly see you and I would differ about the Nebraska-law. I look upon that enactment not as a law, but as violence from the beginning. It was conceived in violence, passed in violence, is maintained in violence, and is being executed in violence. I say it was conceived in violence, because the destruction of the Missouri Compromise, under the circumstances, was nothing less than violence. It was passed in violence, because it could not have passed at all but for the votes of many members in violence of the known will of their constituents. It is maintained in violence because the elections since, clearly demand it's repeal, and this demand is openly disregarded. You say men ought to be hung for the way they are executing that law; and I say the way it is being executed is quite as good as any of its antecedents. It is being executed in the precise way which was intended from the first; else why does no Nebraska man express astonishment or condemnation? Poor Reeder is the only public man who has been silly enough to believe that any thing like fairness was ever intended; and he has been bravely undeceived.

That Kansas will form a Slave Constitution, and, with it, will ask to be admitted into the Union, I take to be an already settled question; and so settled by the very means you so pointedly condemn. By every principle of law, ever held by any court, North or South, every negro taken to Kansas is free; yet, in utter disregard of this -- in the spirit of violence merely -- that beautiful Legislature gravely passes a law to hang men who shall venture to inform a negro of his legal rights. This is the substance, and real object of the law. If, like Haman, they should hang upon the gallows of their own building, I shall not be among the mourners for their fate.

In my humble sphere, I shall advocate the restoration of the Missouri Compromise, so long as Kansas remains a territory; and when, by all these foul means, it seeks to come into the Union as a Slave-state, I shall oppose it. I am very loth, in any case, to withhold my assent to the enjoyment of property acquired, or located, in good faith; but I do not admit that good faith, in taking a negro to Kansas, to be held in slavthe Union must be doubliere that have of she vite, heining a slave state scripting the is, by the pay means for state you may you wall have man for state you be admitted, or the Union be derived? Shat note he the place of the gents when a first heaven a practice one In your animption that their may be a fail decision of the starry gent in the second planet, see you are I worken offer about the relation of the starry gent in the second planet, see you are I worken offer about the relation of the starry gent in the second planet, see you are I worken on the second planet, see you are I worken on the second prover on violence, is mantamen is not be leaven to a leave of the strenger because the descenter of the strenger prover on violence of the theory works because the descenter of the theory works heaven the descenter of the theory works have been the about the second provides in white heaven to a second the proves we works heaven the descenter of the theory works which for the state of many provides in white heaven the second the second provides in white heaven the second of the theory works with any the pay the works of state law, in provide the second of the theory the provide of the theory will be then the second the second of the theory are then are the second of the theory are the n pitt en gove en eng of the entreenter It is heng execute in the presenter thick was not never for the fore some the day no Able has neve expression to the one possible men at the her pilly anyle to believe the anything the here brief and the anything the here brief to extend to a function of present to be an the here brief to recearch to be an the here brief to recearch to be an the here brief to recearch to be an the here brief to a slew constant the here brief to recearch to be an any petter of present gove to be and that hance where for a slew constant that hance where for a slew constant that hance where the new of the to be an allow petter of present go a peter that hance where the new of the to be an allow petter of present to be and that hance where the new of the anallow petter of present go a peter that he peter any for the to be an allow for the present of the anallow for the present of the anallow for the present of the anthe fore the present of the anthe perform a the share of the the present of the present of the and the present of

Image Source: Presidential Letters at the Massachusetts Historical Society, Letter from Abraham Lincoln (Springfield) to Joshua Fry Speed about slavery, the Nebraska Bill, and Kansas affairs, 24 Aug. 1855.

continued next page

This primary source is referenced in Warning Signs: Lincoln's Response to Rising Threats to Freedom, Justice and Democracy, a project of Lincoln Presidential Foundation, generously supported by Iron Mountain.

PRIMARY SOURCE

Letter from Abraham Lincoln to Joshua Fry Speed, continued

ery, is a possibility with any man. Any man who has sense enough to be the controller of his own property, has too much sense to misunderstand the outrageous character of this whole Nebraska business. But I digress. In my opposition to the admission of Kansas I shall have some company; but we may be beaten. If we are, I shall not, on that account, attempt to dissolve the Union. On the contrary, if we succeed, there will be enough of us to take care of the Union. I think it probable, however, we shall be beaten. Standing as a unit among yourselves, you can, directly, and indirectly, bribe enough of our men to carry the day -- as you could on an open proposition to establish monarchy. Get hold of some man in the North, whose position and ability is such, that he can make the support of your measure -- whatever it may be -- a democratic party necessity, and the thing is done. Appropos [sic] of this, let me tell you an anecdote. Douglas introduced the Nebraska bill in January. In February afterwards, there was a call session of the Illinois Legislature. Of the one hundred members composing the two branches of that body, about seventy were democrats. These latter held a caucus, in which the Nebraska bill was talked of, if not formally discussed. It was thereby discovered that just three, and no more, were in favor of the measure. In a day of two Dougla's [sic] orders came on to have resolutions passed approving the bill; and they were passed by large majorities!!! The truth of this is vouched for by a bolting democratic member. The masses too, democratic as well as whig, were even, nearer unanamous [sic] against it; but as soon as the party necessity of supporting it, became apparent, the way the democracy began to see the wisdom and justice of it, was perfectly astonishing.

You say if Kansas fairly votes herself a free state, as a Christian you will rather rejoice at it. All decent slaveholders talk that way; and I do not doubt their candor. But they never vote that way. Although in a private letter, or conversation, you will express your preference that Kansas shall be free, you would vote for no man for Congress who would say the same thing publicly. No such man could be elected from any district in a slave-state. You think Stringfellow & Co. ought to be hung; and yet, at the next presidential election you will vote for the exact type and representative of Stringfellow. The slave-breeders and slave-traders, are a small, odious and detested class, among you; and yet in politics, they dictate the course of all of you, and are as completely your masters,

In my humble sphere, I shall the restoration of the Merioan Co men so long as Reman remains a min so long a and when, by all the very foth, in any can to quest to the enjoy but I do not admit that in teking a vegio to Kan her too much se Bit opportion to the the we may be beaten - If we a shall not, on that account, alter oles the Union - On the cari then nee we succeed in to take can of in to take can of the Am Standing as hole on an open, hole monarchy. Get ha with North, when to that he c cretic parts r thing is acous - Approprior of this, let the Nahasha her in form Illinos Legistation of the lovy, which the Nelserta file was t formaly there, discovered that go ing the bile. el as why new ever, nea against the but as soon as

Image Source: Presidential Letters at the Massachusetts Historical Society, Letter from Abraham Lincoln (Springfield) to Joshua Fry Speed about slavery, the Nebraska Bill, and Kansas affairs, 24 Aug. 1855.

continued next page

This primary source is referenced in Warning Signs: Lincoln's Response to Rising Threats to Freedom, Justice and Democracy, a project of Lincoln Presidential Foundation, generously supported by Iron Mountain.

PRIMARY SOURCE

Letter from Abraham Lincoln to Joshua Fry Speed, continued

as you are the master of your own negroes. You inquire where I now stand. That is a disputed point -- I think I am a whig; but others say there are no whigs, and that I am an abolitionist. When I was in Washington I voted for the Wilmot Proviso as good as forty times, and I never heard of any one attempting to unwhig me for that. I now do no more than oppose the extension of slavery.

I am not a Know-Nothing. That is certain. How could I be? How can any one who abhors the oppression of negroes, be in favor or degrading classes of white people? Our progress in degeneracy appears to me to be pretty rapid. As a nation, we began by declaring that "all men are created equal." We now practically read it "all men are created equal, except negroes" When the Know-Nothings get control, it will read "all men are created equal, except negroes, and foreigners, and Catholics." When it comes to this I should prefer emigrating to some country where they make no pretence of loving liberty -- to Russia, for instance, where despotism can be taken pure, and without the base alloy of hypocracy [sic].

Mary will probably pass a day to two in Louisville in October. My kindest regards to Mrs. Speed. On the leading subject of this letter, I have more of her sympathy that I have of yours. And yet let me say I am

Yours friend forever

A. Lincoln

Image Source: Presidential Letters at the Massachusetts Historical Society, Letter from Abraham Lincoln (Springfield) to Joshua Fry Speed about slavery, the Nebraska Bill, and Kansas affairs, 24 Aug. 1855.

Transcript Source: Presidential Letters at the Massachusetts Historical Society, Letter from Abraham Lincoln (Springfield) to Joshua Fry Speed about slavery, the Nebraska Bill, and Kansas affairs, 24 Aug. 1855.

lincolnpresidential.org

This primary source is referenced in Warning Signs: Lincoln's Response to Rising Threats to Freedom, Justice and Democracy, a project of Lincoln Presidential Foundation, generously supported by Iron Mountain.

This primary source is referenced in Warning Signs: Lincoln's Response to Rising Threats to Freedom, Justice and Democracy, a project of Lincoln Presidential Foundation, generously supported by Iron Mountain.